The Pickleball Paddle Blue List

Quieter Pickleball Paddles

List updated: April 8, 2023

Introduction: The following paddles have been selected and qualified for 'Blue List' status through a testing procedure that uses a combination of metrics in addition to loudness (sound pressure). This includes the 'pitch' and duration of the sound produced when a pickleball is struck by a paddle.

These metrics were selected after reviewing with players and non-players the characteristics of a typical pickleball hit including input from some who consider impulse sounds of this type to be annoying.

The resulting criteria were established by PSM LLC in 2022 as a means of recommending paddles to communities and pickleball clubs that are attempting to mitigate the sound of pickleball.

Test Procedure: PSM LLC is a pickleball acoustics consulting firm. We have built an echo free (or anechoic) chamber for testing pickleballs and paddles. A calibrated microphone is mounted in this chamber and a computer outside the chamber analyzes the microphone output.

Criteria: The paddles listed have a sound pressure level (SPL) below that generated by standard ½ inch thick fiberglass faced paddles. In addition, these paddles have a main pitch below 1.000 Hz and a decay time of the primary vibration mode under 5 milliseconds.

Using This List: PSM LLC updates the list as it tests and identifies additional paddles that meet the criteria.

Updating This List: To arrange additional paddle or pickleball testing, contact PSM LLC via email at rmu@pickleballsound.com.

For an updated version of The Blue List, see the PSM LLC website (pickleballsound.com) as well as the Pickleball Sound Mitigation Facebook group page. The Pickleball Paddle Blue List is copyright free.
